

Colliers International's Seattle Office to Use 3D Mapping Software from Seattle-Based DR-i-VE

Software Allows Commercial Real Estate Services Provider to Help Clients Synthesize and Visualize Urban Environment for Key Real Estate Decisions

Seattle, May 6, 2014 – Seattle-based technology startup DR-i-VE is proud to announce its newest client, the Seattle office of global real estate services firm Colliers International. Colliers joins other early adopters who leverage DR-i-VE's tools and services to support better decisions for real property. Starting now, brokers in Colliers International's Seattle office will use DR-i-VE's innovative proprietary technology to find and evaluate real estate opportunities.

"At Colliers, we strongly value our ability to offer in-depth analysis and insight into the local marketplace to help clients make sound real estate decisions" states Dylan Simon, an investment sales broker with Colliers International in Seattle, who is leading Colliers' early-adopter program with DR-i-VE. "The innovative DR-i-VE solution will allow us to synthesize data across several key areas that affect investors' real estate decisions, positioning us to add the most value to our clients."

DRiVEdecisions is a 3D platform for visually searching, analyzing and presenting information relevant to urban development. It reveals interrelated factors, empowers clients to evaluate needs and opportunities at a single glance, and enables more sophisticated decision-making for real estate investors as well as developers and urban planners.

In addition to Colliers International, DR-i-VE's technology is used by other leaders of Seattle's built environment, such as Washington Holdings, Daniels Development, and, on a pro bono basis, the Seattle Planning Commission. The current prototype, seattle.drivedecisions.com, offers an in-depth analysis of every property in Seattle, with more cities coming online soon.
